

Jessie has suffered what at this point is a non-fatal drowning and is in danger of developing life-threatening pulmonary edema during the next 3-6 hours, especially since foam issued from her mouth and nose during CPR. Call the local hospital and arrange for immediate air transportation. DO NOT let Jessie go home. Do your best to warm her up. Once she warms up, attempt to rule out a possible spine injury.