

Aside from some tenderness on the right side of her chest, Jenny appears to be okay. Encourage her to ski slowly and under better control. Closely monitor her for the signs and symptoms of respiratory distress during the ski back to your vehicles, as even mild S/Sx could indicate lung damage.