

Aside from her bruises, Jane is okay with no chance of developing pulmonary edema. While she had a rough swim and stated she inhaled some water while upside down in her kayak, she remained awake throughout the event and was able to self-rescue. While she is likely to be sore in the morning, she can safely remain in the field.